A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on August 11, 2003 has been entered.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. § 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless --

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 5 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. § 102(b) as being clearly anticipated by U.S. patent 3,859,704 to Nasson. The steel member is attached to the aluminum member via an interference connection which may be made via a shrink fit (column 2, line 2) using adhesive in grooves shown in fig. 2 and discussed in column 2, lines 15-25, 40-45 and such joint would inherently be gas-tight in the same manner as that of the present invention given it includes the same structural features.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 5 and 6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over applicant's disclosure of prior art on page 1, lines 15-20 in view of U.S. patent 5,803,553 to Wei.

Applicant discloses on page 1, lines 15-20 of the specification that it is known in the related arts to provide a gas-tight joint between a flange/end fitting and a tubular housing using a heat-shrink process whereby a metallic end flange is heated and assembled onto a tubular housing to which adhesive has already been applied. The prior art of Wei discloses in column 8, lines 6-67 continuing to column 9, lines 1-25 that it is known in the art to assemble members together via a heat-shrink process with adhesive 72 applied to grooves 43,44. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide the flange and end fitting of applicant's discloses prior art with grooves such as taught by Wei in order to aid in securing the flange and fitting together by keeping the adhesive in the grooves during the heat-shrink process.

Applicant's arguments filed August 11, 2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. In the remarks of the amendment applicant states that the prior art neither discloses or suggests the subject matter claimed by the present invention and points out that the Nasson coupling requires a mechanical interlock, adhesive and additionally an interference fit (shrink fit) and attempts to distinguish the present invention by signifying that it does not require an mechanical interlock (other than the interference fit). It is the examiners position that the Nasson coupling teaches all of the features of the claims of the present invention, regardless of whether it includes the additional feature of a mechanical interlock. The mechanical interlock is clearly made due the interaction between the grooves and detents in the two members being connected nonetheless the Nasson coupling provides an interference fit which may be done via a shrink fit (col. 2, line 2) and the joint may be made gas tight in the same manner as that of the present invention via "adequate distribution of the curable resinous adhesive over the surfaces involved" (col. 2, lines 40-45). Applicant does not address the rejection of claims 5-6 as being unpatentable over applicant's disclosure of prior art on page 1, lines 15-20 in view of U.S. patent 5,803,553 to Wei.

Claims 2-4 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
